Welcome, November! The month is in full swing and we are now on the fast track to the Holiday season. Pretty soon we will be flying head first into Thanksgiving and then Christmas and New Years will be here and over before we know it. As we make plans for the Holidays we will all have to make difficult choices about seeing friends and family. It may not be a normal way of celebrating for most of us, but I hope we still find ways to carry on traditions with loved ones in one way or another. November is all about showing gratitude and I challenge each of you to do just that as we go about our daily lives. Stay safe and stay healthy!

"I retired from 30 years of teaching in 2012. I have one more thing to offer to education once I pass away. Donating myself will be my last teachable moment in this world. I am praying that something positive will result from my tissue, organ, and body donation. Helping others is what I have made a career of, and people of all ages can benefit from my gift."
